PERISHED IN THE FLAMES.

OVER FOURTEEN HUNDRED HORSES BURNED TO DEATH.

New York Visited By One of the Largest Fires That Has Occurred in That City in Years—Nearly the Entire Department Called Out—Other Fire Losses.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The largest fire that has taken place in this city for many years broke out at 1:30 a. m. to-day in the car stables of the Belt Line Horse railroad on the west of Tenth avenue between Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth streets. The car stables with all their contents were completely destroyed. Over 1,400 horses perished in the flames. One hundred and thirty cars and a large quantity of harness, feed and other material were burned. Only forty horses were saved out of nearly 1,500 in the stables.

The stables occupied the whole front on the west side of Tenth avenue, and extended down Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth streets half way to Eleventh avenue. The building was three stories high. The fire was discovered in the cellar in the extreme western end of the stables and spread so rapidly that it was impossible to enter the building to save the horses. When the firemen arrived the whole building was in flames, and the heat was so intense that the firemen could not approach close enough to be of any service to save the premises from destruction.

The heat set fire to a row of tenements and stables on the south side of Fifty-third street and in a few minutes the whole row was blazing. Then the flames leaped across Fifty-fourth street and set fire to the six-story silk factory of Jacob New, a building which extends through to Fifty-fifth street. A row of flats and tenement houses east of the silk factory next took fire, and the flames spread so rapidly that the tenants barely escaped with their lives. In some cases the firemen were compelled to tear down back fences to enable tenants to escape, as it was impossible for them to leave by the front doors, owing to the intense heat. The five-story brick tenement on the northeast corner of Fifty-fourth street and Tenth avenue was next destroyed. A row of frame buildings, eight in all, and from two to three stories high, on the east side of Tenth avenue were the next to be licked up by the flames.

The first alarm was sent out by a watchman in the car stables, and this was soon followed by the "Three Sixes" signal which brought engines from every part of the city. Chief Shay was in command, assisted by Chiefs of Battalions Breslan, Lally, Giequel, McGill, Reeves and Fisher. The men under their command did their utmost to stay the flames which were assuming alarming proportions, and at one time looked as if they would baffle the efforts of the whole fire department. Fortunately the western wall of the stable was unusually thick, built especially for the purpose of resisting fire. This staid the flames from extending beyond the stable to Eleventh avenue. It was impossible to pass through either Fifty-third or Fifty-fourth street in a line with the fire, and the firemen made their stand in the rear of the buildings on fire to prevent the flames extending to Fifty-fifth and Fifty-second streets.

The buildings destroyed besides the car stables and silk factory, are a row of apartment houses on Fifty-fourth street and the frame buildings on Fifty-third street and on Tenth avenue. The entire equipment of the Belt Line railroad is destroyed and the loss to the company will reach nearly $30,000. The other losses cannot be computed, but the value of the other property destroyed will amount to as much more. When the fire broke out the entire stock of horses owned by the railroad company, both sick and well, were in their stalls on the second and third floors of the building. The employees of the company who were about the building made desperate efforts to release them so that they might be driven into the street, but the rapid spread of the flames prevented this. The watchmen ran up the runway and in a few minutes' time they had released and driven into the street about fifty of the frightened animals, and then they were compelled to abandon the horses to their fate and fly for their lives. There were 180 cars on the lower floor, the entire equipment of the company. These, with all the harness and an immense amount of hay and feed, were destroyed.

The fire on the north side of Fifty-third street stopped at the western walls of the stable. All buildings on the south side of the street opposite the stables were destroyed. These consisted of small wooden buildings occupied by poor families who were with great difficulty driven into the street in time to save their lives. The streets around the neighborhood were blocked with household goods which the tenants of the burned dwellings had succeeded in carrying into the streets when they fled. The homeless people stood around guarding their household goods and bemoaning their loss. On the north side of Fifty-fourth street all of the buildings which were tenement houses from three to five stories high were destroyed. All the inhabitants of these escaped.

On the south side of Fifty-fourth street the fire did not extend beyond the western walls of the stables, but the tenants in the buildings for some distance further up moved out. Family after family were driven from their houses as the fire extended. So far as could be learned no lives were lost, although some reports circulated shortly after the fire broke out were to the effect that several persons had perished.

The fire was extinguished at 5:30 a. m. Only one life was lost, that of Elizabeth Walsh, who resided in a shanty near the stables. She died from strangulation. The losses out of the railroad company are: Stable and machinery, $850,000; feed, $25,000; harness, $75,000; 1,150 horses, $250,000; cars, $180,000. Total, $1,080,000. Insurance about one-third of that amount.

The engines surrounds the block running from Tenth to Eleventh avenue and from Fifty-third to Fifty-fourth street to-day, pumping streams on the smouldering ruins of the car stables. An odor of burning flesh meets the nostrils of the great crowd gathered in the vicinity.

It is now stated that three persons lost their lives by the fire, but only one is known to have died through it, Elizabeth Walsh, of No. 540 West Fifty-fourth street. She died of fright. A hortler employed at the stables, who, it is stated, went in to rescue some horses when the fire broke out has not since been seen.

Another woman in the vicinity is also said to have died from fright. Nothing can be learned regarding her. Fifty-third street was strewn with the dead bodies of goats, cows and dogs.

During the fire a number of firemen were badly scorched, while some dropped from utter exhaustion. Capt. Brown, of Engine No. 2 said he never saw flames travel so fast in all his experience.

The unfortunate tenants of the burned houses are grouped around the streets to-day gazing mournfully on the ruins of their former homes. Many have lost everything they possessed. Some are scantily dressed and unless they are given shelter by their neighbors, they will have to seek refuge in the neighboring police stations to-night.

At 11 o'clock portion of the rear of the rear wall of the stable crashed into Fifty-third street, and several policemen and bystanders narrowly escaped with their lives. The officials of the company have already applied for permission to build the territory stables to shelter the horses saved, and say they will begin running the ten cars saved from the fire. The company's books are in three large safes, and these are in the middle of the ruins. The total number of cars owned by the company was 150. Of these ten were saved.

Almost Another Horse Holocaust.

CINCINNATI, May 28.—Fire broke out in the hay loft of the Brighton car stables at Harrison and Colemen at 1 o'clock this morning, from spontaneous combustion. Three alarms were turned in and for a while it appeared as if the efforts of the firemen were futile. They succeeded, however, in confining the flames to the upper floor, used for the storage of feed. The 200 horses were turned loose in the street and scattered all over town, many of them wearing valuable harness. The loss will reach $10,000 on feed and $3,000 on the building which is fully insured. Much difficulty was experienced in recovering the horses, and there was much anguish in running West end cars this morning.

Sixty Houses Destroyed.

LONDON, May 28.—A despatch from St. Petersburg gives the particulars of the destructive conflagration which occurred near that city on the 24th instant by which sixty houses were destroyed. The fire was of incendiary origin. Placards were posted throughout the town on Sunday threatening that at midnight that night the buildings would be burned and on Monday similar notices appeared. When the fire did break out on Tuesday a raging wind carried the flame from house to house and before the fire could be controlled sixty villas were destroyed. The loss amounts to several million roubles. The incendiaries have not been arrested.

GROCERS' GRIEVANCES.

The Wholesalers Make Complaint to the Interstate Commission.

ST. LOUIS, May 28.—A local paper says it has just been learned that the associate wholesale grocers of the city had entered a formal complaint of discrimination against the Missouri Pacific before the interstate commerce commission. The causes of the grievances are three in number: First, it is alleged that a conspiracy exists between the Missouri Pacific and other lines by which shippers outside of the state are charged less for transportation for points without the state than is charged for Missouri shippers for transportation between the same points.

The second cause of complaint was that, though the Missouri Pacific had no line of its own between this city and East St. Louis, it offers to do business for both these points from Kansas, Nebraska and other states at the same rate, and, as the Missouri Pacific must pay something for transportation across the river out of the compensation received, it is argued that this city is discriminated against in favor of East St. Louis. Carload rates is the burden of the third complaint. It is set forth that the Missouri Pacific rates for carloads from this city and other points is more than 25 per cent less than the charge for similar merchandise in quantities less than a carload, which is alleged, is in violation of the first and second sections of the interstate law.

Suicide is Confession.

QUEBEC, May 28.—A compound tragedy in the shape of a murder and suicide has caused a profound sensation in the parish of St. Nicholas, fifteen miles from this city. Francis Lagace, thirty-eight years old, a rich farmer, recently died and was buried without suspicion of foul play having been aroused. Later, however, a chain of circumstances led to the disinterment of the body in consequence of suspicions of poisoning against the widow of Lagace. Her supposed accomplice, one Elzear Morin, learning that justice was likely to overtake him, drowned himself in a well on his own property last night. His body was found at 6 o'clock by his wife on going to draw water. Mrs. Lagace, the wife of the poisoned man, has been placed under arrest pending the two inquests.

RECOVERING THE VICTIMS

MORE LIVES LOST AT PARIS THAN AT FIRST REPORTED.

Fifty-Two Bodies Already Recovered and Over One Hundred Still Missing—Failure of a Torpedo Flotilla—Government Troops Attacked By Strikers.

PARIS, May 28.—The Opera Comique horror is not unlike the terrible holocaust at the Brooklyn theater in December, 1876. Here, as there, the full extent of the catastrophe was not known until the next day, when a workman came across a great heap of bodies. In the heap found here last evening forty bodies of ladies were dragged out, a quivering mass of roasting and charred flesh. Twenty-three of the bodies were seen to have been ladies in full dress, and from that fact must have had escorts who, coward like, left them to their fate, as no male remains were found near by. No Americans were among the dead, and none are reported missing.

The official figures this morning are as follows: Total number of bodies found fifty-two, twenty-eight of whom have been identified; twelve severely wounded, sixty slightly wounded. There are one hundred missing. The dead will reach, it is believed, fully 150. A singular fact is that the dead lie in groups. Nearly all the bodies are those of well dressed persons, and most all still have on their gloves. Many bodies are twisted into strange and weird shapes, while some seem to have been broiled, as if on a gridiron. Under the debris of a narrow staircase was a group of seven corpses whose charred and blackened members were intertwined in almost Laocoon coils. One of these was that of a woman whose face was literally roasted like an overdone piece of beef. In her ears glistened a pair of large diamond ear rings. Her arms were wound about the body of a little girl, apparently her daughter.

An artist named Phillipi performed prodigies of valor in saving life. He mounted a ladder three times and saved three dangerous after they had been abandoned by the firemen. In the Rue Favart a sudden gust of wind cleared away the dense smoke, when a woman and two men were seen standing in an angle of an uppermost cornice. The woman tried to jump, but the men prevented her. When all were finally rescued the woman was a raving maniac.

Two coopers of the Lanterne, who escaped from the Opera Comique fire, say that the scenery was fully on fire in five minutes, and that in a quarter of an hour the whole interior of the theater was ablaze. The greater part of the public, they think, succeeded in escaping by the staircase, but that the smoke quickly suffocated those in the upper part of the house who were unable to get out. On their way out they passed over bodies at every step. These were mostly of women, who had fainted or who had been trampled upon by the crowd. The two men succeeded in rescuing ten women, but were themselves soon driven out by the suffocating smoke.

The electric light had already been introduced in the theater, and in a few nights the gas would have been altogether superseded.

The assessment of property by the City Assessor amounts this year to $2,152,055. The City Council made a levy of 75 cents on the $100 for General Fund, 10 cents for School Fund, and 25 cents for Interest Fund. According to these figures the property tax for city purposes next year will be as follows:

General fund.....	$16,140 41

Interest fund.....	5,380 18

Total..... $23,672 00

The assessment of property in Maysville for State and county purposes, as reported by the State Board of Equalization, amounts to $2,395,629. The county levy on city property is:

For turnpike and bridges.....	16 cents
For jail fund.....	18 cents
For deficit claims.....	5 cents

Total..... 39 cents

This will make the property tax to be paid this year by the people of Maysville for county purposes as follows:

For turnpikes and bridges.....	$3,833 00
For jail fund.....	4,912 13
For deficit claims.....	1,187 82

Total..... $9,832 95

The State levy is 47½ cents on the $100, and the tax to be paid this year for State purposes by the people of Maysville amounts to $11,379.23.

Summing up we have the following property tax to be paid by the people of Maysville:

For city purposes.....	$22,672 60
For county purposes.....	9,342 95
For state purposes.....	11,379 23

The citizens of Georgetown and Cynthiana will decorate the graves of their Confederate dead, to-day.

The value of the railroad property in the State, subject to taxation, is shown to be $33,629,598, which is an increase of $1,602,926 over the assessment for 1886.

The Newport State Journal remarks that "blue grass never looked better—a sure indication of a regular genuine old blue grass Democratic Kentucky victory."

The Democrats of Bracken are holding a primary election to-day to nominate a candidate for the Legislature. Joe Walton, of Germantown, will likely be the successful candidate.

The Flemingsburg Times-Democrat has "assurances" that C. P. Huntington will improve and extend the Cincinnati and South-eastern and make it a link in his system of Kentucky railroads.

CHATANOOGA has subscribed $125,000 worth of stock and donated twenty acres of land to secure a reaper and mower factory from the North, and, of course, she will get it. The factory will be moved in a few weeks. It employs eight hundred hands.

In 1886, one hundred and one miles of railroad were built in this State. There are five hundred and one miles now contracted for and to be completed this year. Kentucky is getting there right along, and is enjoying a regular boom in railroad building.

THE BULLETIN gave the amount of the claims and accounts allowed at the recent term of the Court of Claims. There was no mistake as to the figures. The reason why the white pauper claims and the salaries of the county officers were cauged under one head in the BULLETIN was because such claims and salaries are bunched and appear together on the list as prepared by the County Clerk. The Republican is enjoying a laugh at our expense, but it is a significant fact that the editors of that paper didn't discover the mistake, and would never have known it, had not some one called their attention to it. Such is our information.

FOURTH DAY OF THE DRILL

THE SCENES ON THE GROUNDS AT CAMP GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Eight Thousand People Witnessing the Military Movements of the Soldiers—Washington People Leaving the Capital for a Sunnier Vacation—Notes.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The fourth day of the National drill was ushered into fair but threatening weather. When, at 10 o'clock, the Indianapolis Light infantry filed into the grounds, fully 8,000 people greeted them with applause. The company was put through the manual, which it performed in a very creditable manner. The Indianapolis boys were followed by the Alexandria Light infantry. The Jackson (Mich.) rifles came next and were well received. The Molineaux rifles, of Brooklyn, N. Y., followed and went through the different military movements in a manner that showed that they were well up in tactics.

It was, however, reserved for the Belknap Rifles, of San Antonio, Tex., to capture the hearts of the large audience. This company went through the difficult military evolutions with such precision that each movement drew forth rapturous applause. In the manual of arms this company appeared to come nearest of any in attaining the apparent perfection exhibited by the Toledo Cadets yesterday.

The San Antonio Rifles, next on the program, were well received, and were followed by the crack Lomax Rifles, of Mobile. The latter company did very well indeed, and crowded the Belknap and Toledo boys very hard, but those who make military tactics a study say that there appears to be no doubt about the Ohioans still being in the lead.

Washington Social Gossip.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The departure of the president for the mountains has set the fashionable world fairly into a tumbler over each other in hot haste to get out of town in every direction and by all methods, but they are going. The cabinet is much taken by surprise and so uncertain how long the "boss" is going to stay away, and they have not formed any plans. The people who are independent of the official demands are hurrying out as fast as they can. Here are some of them.

Senator and Mrs. McPherson have left the city. They soon sail for Europe. Admiral and Mrs. Selfridge intend taking a cottage for the summer at Mount Desert, where they will go by the middle of June. Gen. and Mrs. Benton went to Philadelphia. Minister De Reuter goes to New York this week. George Bancroft goes to Newport, as usual. Senator Van Wyck, accompanied by his wife and little daughter, left Tuesday morning for their home in Nebraska. Madame De Sebourg and family leave for Europe in June, to remain two or three years. Representative and Mrs. Butterworth and Miss Butterworth, will spend the first two weeks of June at West Point. Mr. and Mrs. August O. Tyler leave the city early in June for their country home at New London, Conn., from whence they will sail for an extended trip abroad some time in October. Col. and Mrs. John May are now in New York, having deferred their departure to Europe until the first week in June.

Mr. de Bounder de Melabrook, the Belgian minister, will sail this week for his native country. Representative and Mrs. Springer will leave for their home in Illinois on Wednesday. Mrs. Carter, accompanied by her granddaughter, Miss Carter, will leave in June to spend the summer at Asbury Park. Mrs. Lamont will remain in the city until the middle of July, when she will leave with her two children to pass the summer at her home. Col. Emile Frey will sail in a fortnight to spend the summer with his children in Switzerland. Mrs. and the Misses Beach, after spending a fortnight in June with relatives in Hartford, Conn., will go to Mt. Desert for the summer.

Mrs. Folsom's little neice, May Hudson, who has been passing the winter with her, left on Wednesday to return to her home in Jackson, Mich. During the absence of the President and Mrs. Cleveland, in the Adirondacks, Mrs. Folsom and Mrs. Welch will remain at Oak View. The Hon. Beriah Wilkins and family, of Ohio, and Capt. Arthur McArthur, U. S. A., and family, have made arrangements with the Hotel Atlanta, Asbury Park, for apartments during the coming season.

Commenting on the Drill.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The artillery drill which took place at Athletic park yesterday afternoon, between the Indianapolis and Milwaukee Light batteries, has been very generally commented on to-day. The drilling of the two batteries was so nearly even that it will require the official score to decide which will carry away the prize of $1,500. The Indianapolis men appeared to do better work in the mechanical movements, while the gunnery and evolutions of the Milwaukee battery were unquestionable the better of the two.

"Gunner's Mount" with chaissons to the right of the pieces, was a command that gave both batteries a great deal of trouble.

Before the Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Mr. Stahlman, vice president of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, made an argument this afternoon before the interstate commerce commission, in favor of the permanent suspension of the long and short haul clause. Mr. Stahlman was present at the hearings of the commission in the south and southwest, and in his argument to-day spoke for the southern and southwestern roads affected by the temporary suspension of the fourth section.

A Distinction With a Difference.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Assistant Secretary Maynard has informed the collector of customs at New York that fresh fish, when imported for immediate consumption are exempt from duty, no matter by whom caught or by whom imported; but that if they are not imported for immediate consumption, they are subject to duty.

Supreme Court Adjourns.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The United States supreme court met at noon to-day. Thirty decisions were handed down, and the court adjourned until October next. No decisions were rendered in the telephone cases.

Mexican News.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 28.—A report was current in financial circles here yesterday that the contract for operating the mint in this city is to be transferred to a syndicate of English capitalists for $1,500,000, this sum to include the purchase of all the machinery, etc. The mint contract is regarded as a very profitable one, and these terms are not considered extravagant. It is also known that the directors of the Bank of London, Mexico and South America contemplate establishing a system of branch banks throughout this republic. The English financial influence is constantly growing here, and the consolidated debt bonds have taken an upward spurt in this market.

The Virginia Bond Muddle.

RICHMOND, Va., May 28.—An injunction was granted by Judge Bond, of the United States circuit court, in Baltimore yesterday, and filed in the office of the clerk of the court here, restraining Commonwealth Attorney Witt from bringing suit in conformity with the acts passed by the legislature at the session just closed, against persons who tender coupons in payment of taxes. This injunction was granted upon a motion by Mr. Cooper, a citizen of England and holder of bonds of the state.

O'Brien Resting in Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 28.—Editor O'Brien and Dennis Kilbride have spent the day very quietly, remaining in doors and receiving visitors. Mr. O'Brien looks tired and care-worn. He says he feels as if he needed a good rest of two or three days, away from every one, where he might obtain perfect quiet. Preparations for to-night's demonstration are about completed and have been carried out on a grand scale. It is expected there will be 10,000 torches in line.

Still No Jury.

NEW YORK, May 28.—This was the tenth day spent in an effort to secure a jury for the trial of Jacob Sharp. When the court adjourned last night the third seat in the jury box was vacant. Each side has nine challenges remaining. Up to noon a juror had not been secured for the vacancy.

Baby Burned to Death.

LAWRENCE, Kan., May 28.—About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the children of August Martin set fire to the house, and the baby, one year old, was burned to death. The father brought the child from the burning house alive, but it was so badly burned that it died in a few minutes.

Result of Trading Horses.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., May 28.—In a dispute regarding a horse trade last night, John Cleary was stabbed by William Duer. Both are prominent farmers of the county and wealthy men. The wound is very serious.

Washington Notes.

Col. Jerome Bonaparte will return from Europe in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner G. Hubbard have issued announcement cards of the marriage of their daughter Grace, to Mr. Charles J. Bell, on the 26th of April last.

A favorite practice with society girls at present, is with the rifle, with which some of them are quite expert. Mr. and Mrs. Pitt Cook gave a steam launch party on Tuesday last, leaving the navy yard wharf about 6 o'clock in the evening, and returning at a late hour by moonlight.

The East Tennessee Farmers' association, on account of the discriminations against the agricultural interests of that section of the state by the railroads, has asked the interstate commerce commission to give the law a fair and full trial in every part.
